

Egypt

Egypt said a green economy should prioritize investment in national plans and creation of jobs, and avoid using environmental standards as a pretext to limit trading opportunities for developing countries.