The SAMOA Pathway reinforces the international recognition of SIDS as a special case for development and serves as an international framework to advance the sustainable development priorities of small island developing states. This session will give focused attention to the institutional support provided by the UN system Funds, Programmes, Agencies, Regional Commissions and international intergovernmental organizations for implementation of the SAMOA Pathway. Discussions will focus on how to address and accelerate support for the attainment of SIDS sustainable development objectives, within the context of the ongoing changes to the development system and the opportunity presented by the MTR process to strengthen institutional and targeted international support for SIDS, including allocation of resources.

In this connection, this session will further give due attention to the appropriate modalities for the effective monitoring, follow-up and review of the SAMOA Pathway (in keeping with their recognition as a special case for sustainable development that remains under the full ownership of SIDS) in the context of other international sustainable development agendas i.e. the 2030 Agenda, the Sendai Framework for Disaster Risk Reduction, the Addis Ababa Action Agenda, the Paris Agreement and the New Urban Agenda.
