BANGLADESH DELTA PLAN 2100

Partners to GoB/GoN:

BANGLADESH DELTA PLAN 2100: NOT THE MOST PRACTICAL PROPOSAL

Conditions to Foster Multistakeholder Partnerships	Why BDP is not the Most Paactical approach
Ownership	Eight (Twynstra, Mott McDonald, Climate Adaptation Services, Ecorys, Defacto, Deltares, Alterra, and Weeteveen BOS) out of ten consultancy firms are from outside Bangladesh.
Accountability	What guarantee will the NGOs involved in the implementation of BDP2100 provide should the plan drive the delta to a path of failure and further destruction?
Transparency	expected that such a monumental project will be discussed in the Parliament and in open public forums. Yet, not much is known about the details of the project in the public domain.
Missing the SDGs	Bangladesh needs to devote more resources to improve national capability building that will be necessary to implement land and water management projects in the context of SDGs.
Absence of transboundary river issues	falls short in addressing the importance of an integrated water resources management plan for the GBM basins , involving all co-riparian countries
