

Targets Peaceful and Inclusive Societies

- By 2030 reduce by X% crime, violence and exploitation, including violence against women and eliminate all forms of violence against children.
- Provide all people free and universal legal identity, such as birth registration by 2030.
- Ensure that by 2030, people from all social groups feel safe and have confidence in security provision and child protection systems.
- Significantly reduce the irresponsible trade in arms and conflict commodities, and reduce violence and other negative impacts associated with trade in illicit drugs.

Targets on Rule of Law

- By 2030, ensure equal access to and confidence in independent and responsive justice systems for all people. (Including: human rights, property and tenure rights, employment, business, taxation, fiscal policy, trade and finance.)
- By 2025, public and private bodies have in place a comprehensive system guaranteeing access to and the timely publication of information in the public interest, and the accessibility of that information.
- Reduce bribery and corruption by x% and ensure officials can be held accountable.
- Adopt a comprehensive national framework that ensures freedom of speech, media, association, meaningful political participation and peaceful assembly based on existing international human rights standards.
- All countries through national actions and international cooperation to reduce illicit financial flows, including tax evasion and money laundering by x% by 2030