VNR Countries' SDG reporting choice

ALL 17 GOALS

Many countries included dedicated sections on each of the 17 SDGs. A few countries addressed all SDGs in a cross-cutting way through their own national frameworks.

GOALS UNDER IN-DEPTH REVIEW AT 2017 HLPF

These countries included specific sections focusing on the set of goals that are under in-depth review at the 2017 HLPF. Some also included a statistical annex covering more goals.

GOALS OF OWN CHOICE

Some countries chose to focus on their priority goals within the 2030 Agenda. Some decided to report on the most relevant ones within the set of goals under in-depth review.

- All reviews addressed SDG1 on eradicating poverty; Poverty related to social inequalities
- SDG2 (food Security) interlinked with other SDGs (1, 8 and 5 + 13 in particular)
- Countries have sectoral policies and strategies to ensure affordable, accessible, quality healthcare for all (SDG3).
- Advancement of SDG4, with increase of attendance in early learning centres, and in secondary school attendance and decrease of drop-out rates. Universal access remains a challenge ($)

Overview of the 2017 HLPF (VNRs):

(10-19 July 2017, UN Headquarters, New York)

Eradicating poverty and promoting prosperity in a changing world

- On SDG 5, gender equality is a prerequisite to achieving the 2030 Agenda. Violence against women and girls, and low participation of women in decision making or leadership positions are main challenges.
- Progressed were made on SDG 6, but challenges in rural areas. Water shortage foreseen in the future (competing demands, impact of CC, conflict, natural disasters and excessive groundwater consumption)
- Countries have taken measures on SDG 7 (diversifying energy sources, developing renewable energy sources, improving energy efficiency, awareness-raising...)
- On SDG 8, countries stressed the importance of having sufficient investment in both capital and human resources. Impact of climate change and transnational crime were also stressed.
- On SDG 9, many countries reported on improving transport. infrastructure (airports, roads, harbours and road and rail links), alongside irrigation, clean drinking water, and power supply.
- The use of social protection policies and social security systems were among the measures reported to reduce inequality within and among countries (SDG 10).

Overview of the 2017 HLPF (VNRs):

(10-19 July 2017, UN Headquarters, New York)

Eradicating poverty and promoting prosperity in a changing world

- On SDG 11, countries recognized major role of cities for economic development, but also showed concerns about rapid urbanization, particularly in developing countries.
- Countries reported on significant challenges in achieving sustainable consumption and production (SDG 12), and highlighted their aims and policies for achieving circular or green economies.
- Countries outlined the consequences of climate change (SDG 13), and several policies and actions for both climate mitigation and adaptation were reported on.
- On SDG 14, measures and tools listed by some countries to address the major threats affecting the oceans included integrated coastal management, application of an ecosystem approach, and the establishment of marine protected areas.
- On SDG 15, countries highlighted actions they had taken to preserve biological diversity, such as integration and mainstreaming of ecosystem and biodiversity conservation into sectoral plans, sustainable forest management, and policies to tackle poaching and trafficking of endangered species and products derived from them.

Overview of the 2017 HLPF (VNRs):

(10-19 July 2017, UN Headquarters, New York)

Eradicating poverty and promoting prosperity in a changing world

- On SDG 16, countries' report focused on good governance, strong and transparent institutions, the rule of law, protection of human rights, anti-corruption and preventing illicit flows, as well as access to government and information and strengthening peace and security through strong institutions and good governance.
- On SDG 17, calls to honour commitments made about official development assistance (ODA) were made, while several donor countries reported on their ODA contributions.
- Numerous countries stressed the significance of data, monitoring and accountability mechanisms;
- Many countries addressed ICT and internet services, and it was stressed that internet access can serve as a catalyst for development.

2017 HLPF: Some key points

- National governments strongly committed to transformative shift for 2030 Agenda and “Leave no one behind”
- Policy-making more science- and evidenced-based & aligned with national budgets
- Decentralization is occurring – Local governments & communities adapting SDGs to their particular circumstances
- Multi-stakeholder engagement is increasing
- Partnerships gaining momentum (led by financial & business sectors)
- Need to address SDGs interlinkages in an integrated way (particularly through means of implementation)
- Importance of coherence between SDGs and other intern.-agreed instruments (such as those related to climate change, disaster risk reduction, and trade and human rights)
- Science and technology must be brought in, and knowledge and know-how should be made accessible to all

2017 HLPF: Lessons learned

- Pivotal role of strong partnerships for SDGs;
- Means for stakeholder engagement, including the private sector; and
- Importance of policy coherence and multi-sectoral coordination

2017 HLPF: Lessons learned

Areas requiring additional effort include:

- Achieving real policy coherence and implementing “whole-of-government” approaches;
- Addressing low capacity of many national statistical institutions to meet new challenges;
- Improving the institutional capacity of local governments;
- Promoting greater coordination between the different spheres of public administration;
- Accelerating the integration of the SDGs into the policies and programmes of all relevant line ministries; and
- Inculcating a “whole-of-society” approach so that the SDGs become a truly national endeavour
